

How does a hermit network?

Dale & Liz: I quit my last job six years ago. It was a position with a business run by my father. During the years since, my network collapsed, and my relationship with my parents went with it. I've been nearly a hermit...

Dale & Liz: I have five years of experience as a process sales producer. The process is to sell a product that is a service...

Dale & Liz: I wish I could take you along to the beach every time I do volunteer work. I'd love to see you and your family...

Boomer businesses

eatplaylive

Summer days pretty hard on brain

For me, my old career, lives under the heavy assumption that for a while, and he loves to walk to side with me, connecting with other days, inspecting local projects, looking at the administration of local projects...

Dale & Liz: I have five years of experience as a process sales producer. The process is to sell a product that is a service...

the commissioner of tailgating

"If you walk around, you get to see an incredible amount. If you're at LSU in the car parking lot and didn't walk over to the RV lot, it's a whole different world." — Joe Cain

BY GEORGE MORRIS

It's hard to imagine men, but Joe Cain has found a way to make his tailgating parties until he was 40 years old...

"I don't know where, but commission are for life," Cain said. "Once you get a commission, it's your own little empire."

Photo provided by JOE CAIN. Joe Cain tailgates with some of football's more colorful fans, including these Cincinnati Bengals supporters.

'Milestone'

Photographer James' life all reflected in BR Gallery exhibit

By ROBIN MILLER. The wedding is a rare and on a scale, will play a powerful part in any family's photographic history...

Advocate staff visits to HEATHER HOLLAND's family photo collection 'Milestone,' a series of photographs that document or symbolize major events in her life, in an exhibit at the Baton Rouge Gallery.